

Forms to express the past

Past simple

Form

	affirmative	negative	question
I/You/	installed new solar panels on	did not/didn't	Did you/they
He/She/lt/	our roof last year.	install new solar	install new solar
We/They		panels on our roof	panels on last year.	your/their roof last year?

Usage and examples

For finished events and actions in the past:

Europe decided to limit the import of solar panels from China last week.

For routines and habits in the past:

In the past people didn't have the possibility to harness electricity with solar panel collectors.

Used in stories and descriptions to illustrate the sequence of events:

First, they found a customer interested in the latest solar technology. Then they discussed the specifications of the photovoltaic plant. Finally, they agreed on a price and deadline.

Signal words

last night, year, week...., yesterday, in 1987, 2012,..., this morning, ago

Past continuous

Form

	affirmative	negative	question
I/ He/She/It	was reading the latest issue	was not/wasn't	Was he/she
	of SOLAR Today.	reading the latest	reading the latest
		issue of SOLAR	issue of SOLAR
		Today.	Today?
You/We/They	were reading the latest issue	were not/weren't	Were you/they
	of SOLAR Today.	reading the latest	reading the latest
		issue of SOLAR	issue of SOLAR
		Today.	Today?

Usage and examples

• For actions in progress in the past (unfinished):

Because it was raining, they couldn't test the new solar water heaters.

to describe two actions in progress in the past happening at the same time:

I was working on the calculations while my colleague was designing a new photovoltaic system.

For continuing actions interrupted by a single past action:

We were discussing the latest sales figures when the CEO came in to talk to us about a solar project in Dubai.

Signal words

while, when

Past perfect simple

Form

	affirmative	negative	question
I/You/	had decided to move the	had not/hadn't	Had you decided
He/She/It/	plant to Ingolstadt before we	decided to move	to move the plant
We/They	were informed about the	the plant to	to Ingolstadt changes in company policy.	Ingolstadt before	before we were we were informed	informed about the
		about the changes	changes in
		in company policy.	company policy?

Usage and examples

The past perfect simple is mainly used in combination with the simple past to show which event happened first.

For finished actions:

By the time we got to the office, the meeting had started.

Signal words

after, before, when

Past perfect continuous

Form

	affirmative	negative	question
I/You/	had been talking on the	had not/hadn't	Had he/they been
He/She/It/	phone all morning until he	been talking on	talking on the
We/They	finally packed his bags and	the phone all	phone all drove to the airport.	morning until he	morning?
		finally packed his bags and drove to the airport.

Usage and examples

The past perfect continuous is used to describe longer actions in the past that happened before another completed past event. The emphasis is typically on the duration of the action rather than the result.

For unfinished actions:

The interest in solar-powered cars had been growing steadily, until finally in July a first model was introduced.

• To emphasize the duration of an action (just finished or unfinished):

The members of the board had been discussing the latest developments all morning.

Signal words

All morning/afternoon/day, since, for, how long (for questions)